RESEARCH FOR YEAR-ROUND TURKEY PRODUCTION

Turkey production is getting to be a year-round enterprise, rather than a business of producing meat for the holiday season. Consequently, a year-round supply of hatching eggs has become a necessity. If left entirely to nature's ways, turkey hens would not be able to provide eggs on a year-round schedule. They would normally start to lay in February or March, and continue on into the late spring. The normal season for the turkey hatch would be April, May or June.

College and commercial research groups have devoted much work in recent years to ways of getting year-round turkey egg production. College researchers as early as 1930 had established that artificial light during the laying season would stimulate turkey hens to lay during the short days of winter. However, turkey hens hatched in the off-season rarely exceeded 30 per cent production which is less than half the production expected of hens hatched in April, May or June.

One of the latest research studies into this problem now promises to make a dramatic contribution. It consists of a series of combined turkey growing and breeding experiments that were carried on at one of the Ralston Purina research farms. Researchers have known that the ratio of light to darkness has an effect on the sexual development of animals and poultry. In the Purina studies, the birds' sexual development was actually arrested during the growing period by reducing the length of daily light while they were maturing. At about 14 to 18 weeks of age, the birds each day were driven into darkened pens at 4 p.m. and confined until the next morning, giving them only 8 hours of daily light. Then in the laying periods, the length of day was gradually increased by artificial lighting to a minimum of 14 hours.

The treatment resulted in a 45 per cent improvement in egg production by off-season turkey hens. The results would seem to offer unusual possibilities for the turkey breeder who must furnish hatching eggs on a year-round schedule.

Cattle Prices Expected To Be On Increase

Prices of fed cattle in the next four months are expected to average $1 to $3 above those of a year ago, says the University of Kentucky department of agricultural economics.

Lower supplies will be the main reason for the higher prices say. Economist Buel Lanpher in his bi-weekly outlook letter. In the main cattle feeding states there were 11 per cent fewer cattle on feed October 1 this year than a year ago. One reason for fewer cattle going on feed is that range conditions in the western states is the best in 15 years.

Short term grain feeding (60-90 days) of fast-gaining and high quality cattle may be profitable this winter. In such a cattle feeding program very little price margin can be expected above the purchase price, Lanpher says. Profit margins will probably depend largely on low cost feed gains. Kentucky producers with soft corn or grain sorghum may particularly want to consider short-term feeding this winter.

BUY-NOTES on FOOD

From Extension Service, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

"This little pig went to market"—yes, this little pig went to market, the middle-sized pig and the big pig went, too. In fact, so many pigs have gone to market this fall that good fresh pork is plentiful.

There are usually two peak seasons for pork, one in the spring and one in the fall. The pigs born in the fall go to market in the spring and spring pigs are ready for slaughter in the fall and winter months. It takes six to seven months for pigs to mature sufficiently to be marketed. All pork is comparatively young when slaughtered — probably never more than about three years old. Usually the spring crop is much larger than the fall, that is why greater numbers go to the market in the fall and winter. Soon after large numbers of hogs are marketed, pork begins to show in the retail market at favorable prices.

The wise shopper watches for the reduction in price of pork and takes advantage of it, budget and nutrition wise. It is a good shopping practice before buying to compare prices of various cuts of pork, consider how to prepare, and the family needs. In selecting pork look for meat that is firm, lean and grayish-pink in color. The fat on the outside should be firm and white, and bones should have a reddish color when quality of fresh pork is good.

Generally two forms of pork are found for consumer use — fresh pork, or cured and smoked pork. Curing is accomplished with salt, sugar and nitrates. Salt preserves, sugar improves flavor and texture and adds some preservative effect; the nitrates fix the red color of the lean meat; smoke gives color and flavor and also acts as additional preservative. About half the pork sold to consumers is cured.

At the slaughtering seasons, such as now, and for approximately two months longer, probably the price of fresh pork will be more attractive. Cured pork may be better buys than fresh pork when the supply is not at peak. The price of fresh pork fluctuates more than does the price of cured pork during the year.

To store fresh pork, wrap it loosely in wax paper and store near the freezing unit in the refrigerator. It can be kept successfully four or five days. Cured pork can be kept for a longer and may be tightly wrapped. When frozen, pork should be kept at zero (0°) and can be held three or four months. All cuts of pork should be cooked to the well-done stage, meat thermometer is the most reliable test for thorough roasting or baking. If a meat thermometer is not used, it is a good idea to make a small cut or opening near the center or near bones, to see that the color of fresh pork has turned from pink to gray before removing from the oven.

The earlier a case of tuberculosis is discovered and treated, the better the chance for recovery, but 35 to 40 per cent of new cases are far advanced when first reported.

Fairmount News

By Mrs. R. E. Badgett

Our sincere sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Marion Riley in the death of her mother, Mrs. Mason, who died Thursday morning. We also extend sympathy to Mrs. Maurice Nichols in the death of her sister, Mrs. Bertha Trowbridge, who died Wednesday morning at Ephraim Hospital, Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Harvey Stephens entered Kentucky Baptist Hospital Sunday afternoon where she will be under observation for a few days. Mr. E. L. Badgett received word this week that his brother, Mr. Lytle Badgett, entered Christ Hospital, Cincinnati Ohio.

Mr. Lytle Rouse has returned home from Kentucky Baptist Hospital and is slowly improving. The Brotherhood of Cedar Creek Baptist Church entertained their wives Thursday night with a turkey dinner. The ladies enjoyed the dinner very much and also enjoyed watching the men do all the serving and dish washing which they did real well.

The W.S.C.S. of the Fern Creek Methodist Church went on a tour of the DeLaney Furniture Store, Shelbyville Road, Friday morning. There were 20 who made the tour, including members and their guests. They spent a very delightful morning looking at all the beautiful furniture and everyone enjoyed the coffee and cookies served to them by the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Porter had a Sunday afternoon guests Mr. and Mrs. Chester Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Alloway were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Foreman Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Forrest and Deborah Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nichols and children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Nichols.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Williams were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Tibbs, Jeffersonville, Ind., visited Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Badgett Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Mattie Tichenor was Friday afternoon guest of Mrs. Chester Williams.

Miss Marsha Kay Miller was Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Hardin.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Williams called to see Mrs. Vaughn Lloyd, who has been quite ill, but is much better at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hubbard and Jeanette visited Mr. Orville Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Davidson Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Williams visited Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mattingly Sunday evening.

At the Bates P.T.A. meeting Tuesday night, November 12, Miss Corinne Kaufman, treasurer, announced that a profit of over $500 was made from the fall festival held November 8. This was very good due to the bad weather and so many being absent because of the flu.

Fairdale News

By Mrs. Nancy W. Harlan

The Fairdale Teen-age Club will hold a Christmas dance December 23, at the Fairdale Playatorium. Dancing will start at 7 p.m. and the music will be furnished by Jerry Cox and his Cavaliers. All teen-agers are invited and welcome.

Seaman Recruit Pat Harlan called home Sunday night and talked to his family and several friends who were waiting for his call. Pat is receiving his training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Huff visited the Joseph Harlan Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thomas and daughter were guests Sunday night at the Harlan's and also Eddie Patton.

Misses Mary Lou George and Margaret Blair and Barbara Thomas and Sherry Harlan spent Sunday afternoon in town enjoying a movie and refreshments.

Mrs. Dora Dunn and daughter, Yvonne, visited Mrs. Marie Thomas, Saturday afternoon.

The Fairdale Community Club is starting to collect toys and other articles for the needy and underprivileged children in the area. A Christmas party will be given for the children December 24 in the Playatorium, where gifts will be given and refreshments served. The F.C.C. hopes to make this a memorable event for those less fortunate.

Ronald McDonald flew to St. Petersburg, Fla., Tuesday, where he will visit his grandmother for several months.

Norman Woods, Jerry McDonald, and Garland Meredith visited the Blairs Saturday night.

Bardstown Road News
By Mrs. Fielden Frederick
Mr. Edward C. Kreutzer, 75 formerly a resident of Beargrass and who died Friday morning at Pewee Valley Hospital after an illness of several years.
While living in this community
he was known for the long walks he took in practically all kinds of weather. He was a man who had traveled extensively and spoke entertainingly of his experiences.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs.
Rosita Swift and Mrs. Margaret Hennings. Another sister, Mrs. W.
H. Hoke, died several years ago.
She was a correspondent for The Jeffersonian from Buechel.
Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in the Raters man St. Matthews Funeral Home Interment was in Cave Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Rosita Swift, who broke her hip last week ago at her fall at her home on Beargrass Avenue, is expected along as well as a guest in the Kentuckian Baptist Hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. William Norris spent the day Saturday with Mr.
and Mrs. Edgar Morris at their home on Bardstown Road.

Little Billie Joe Casey who was taken last week to the Children's Hospital is home again,
we are told in a report.
Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stivers and Mr. and Mrs. Fielden Frederick visited at Shaphersville and Mt. Washington Friday.
Mrs. Overton Stivers and little son, Otis Jordan Stivers, have returned to their home on Paganush Lane. He has been named for both his grandfather and is getting along fine.

Mrs. Wilfred Kaiser will entertain Friday at her home on Missions Circle.
Mr. Ted Wright spent the weekend with his parents on Beargrass Avenue. He is a student at the University of Kentucky.
Bro. and Mrs. Norman Treva-thon are spending several days
this week with Dr. and Mrs.
Aaron Doran at Morehead State College. Mrs. Trevathon will visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Pearl Louisville, during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Thomas and three children, Taylorsville, were recent week-end guests of
Bro. and Mrs. Thomas and son
Carol Road.
